PANORAMA SEEKS EXECUTIVE AND SECTION EDITORS

Posted: November 18, 2026

Panorama (journalpanorama.org), the online, open-access, peer-reviewed journal of the Association of Historians of American Art (AHAA), is seeking to fill key editorial roles for 2027: Co-Executive Editor and Section Editors in Book Reviews and Exhibition Reviews.

In alignment with our mission to "embrace the study of the diverse artistic production that circulates within and beyond the constructed geographies of what is now the United States" and "model collaboration, inclusivity, and dialogue," we encourage applications from diverse scholars, including those who may be new to the Association of Historians of American Art and/or Panorama readership. Museum professionals, independent scholars, academics, and those who work in adjacent or interdisciplinary fields grounded in art-historical inquiry and visual and material culture study are welcome. For more about Panorama: https://journalpanorama.org/about.

All Panorama editors serve three-year terms; new editors will serve from January of 2027 through 2029. Ideal candidates will be organized and detail-oriented with an excellent record of scholarship and must be members in good standing of AHAA. Successful candidates will be trained in OJS, Panorama's online submission system, and should be comfortable with MS Word and Google Docs.

Co-Executive Editor. As part of a team of Executive Editors, sets strategic direction for the journal, develops policy, applies for funding, oversees the budget, chairs monthly meetings with the editorial team, and serves as liaison to the journal's Advisory Council and AHAA board. Responsible for the Feature Article, Colloquium, and In the Round sections of the journal. Because of the administrative responsibilities of this position, candidates should be prepared to work with OJS and to use project management software, Dropbox, and Google Docs. This position comes with an annual stipend of $5,000, prorated by start date.

Section Editors. Reporting to the Executive Editors, section editors commission content in their area, provide authors with guidance in terms of editorial development, and ensure that they are following Panorama's style guide. They also participate in monthly conference calls and, as a member of the full editorial team, work together to shape strategic planning for the journal. These positions come with an annual stipend of $1,000, prorated by start date. Panorama seeks one co-editor for each of the following sections:

> Book Reviews. 1,500–2000-word reviews of recently published books in the field of American art. Each editor in this section is responsible for two or three reviews in each issue.
> Exhibition Reviews. 1,500–2000-word reviews of recent or ongoing exhibitions in the field of American art. Each editor in this section is responsible for two or three reviews in each issue.

To apply for any editorial position, please send a CV and statement of interest by December 15, to journalpanorama@gmail.com with the subject line "EDITOR APPLICATION."
